‘Passionate’ therapist wins national award

AN occupational therapist from Parbold has been recognised with a national award, writes Henry James.

Zofia Goddard, group occupational therapist at Millennium Care, has won the National Care Home Worker Award at the Great British Care Awards.

After winning the regional prize, she fended off nine other care workers from across the country at the prestigious event, at a time when the sector has never been more valued.

Kim Jones, home manager at Worthington Lake Care Home said: “Zofia has massive amounts of passion and energy and uses innovative solutions to improve outcomes for her residents across a range of homes.

“She also works closely with the team and helps to empower them. She has a strong ethos of development and continuous improvements.”

Zofia said: “I was absolutely honoured, speechless and overwhelmed to be nominated in the first place.

“It really meant a lot to me

Kate Garraway presents Zofia Goddard with the National Care Home Worker Award

because I came into Millennium and built up this service myself. I joined in November 2019, just before Covid hit.

“I work with residents and by providing a person-centred approach, I improve physical and mental wellbeing and support the homes by offering valuable advice into preventing falls and overall rebuilding independence.”

Residents urged to put forward ideas on how to improve local cycling and walking routes

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancashire has been included in an ambitious new county council plan which aims to double the number of people cycling and also increase how many residents walk at least once a week by 10%.

The scheme also hopes to reduce levels of physical inactivity to below the national average by the target date of 2028.

A key part of the strategy is to publish a number of local cycling and walking infrastructure plans, featuring proposals to join up the gaps in the existing network of footpaths and cycle routes and provide safer, direct and more convenient routes.

A plan will be produced for West Lancashire and people are being asked to help shape the plans by taking part in a survey about current cycling and walking provision in their area.

The councils want to know what they think the gaps are in the network and what facilities would enable them to walk and cycle more.

The county council are already working on the new active travel schemes in West Lancashire at Tawd Valley Park and on the Cheshire Lines Cycle Park which goes through the borough.

Working with Lancashire County Council, the borough council have come up with plans for the area of Ormskirk town centre around St Helens Road, Moor Street and bus station, called the Ormskirk

Residents are being urged to share their views on cycling routes.

Eastern Gateway Project.

This plan involves demolishing the bus station building to create “valuable open space” in the town centre through which the proposed new cycling routes with the town centre and the railway station can be connected.

This plan would introduce safer walking routes and dedicated cycle lanes. This includes improving the St Helens Road-Moor Street road junction and providing a dedicated cycle lane in St Helens Road to create a safer environment for pedestrians and encourage more cycling.

The other scheme is the Parbold-Appley

Bridge towpath improvement project.

Cllr Charlie Edwards, cabinet member for highways and transport at Lancashire County Council said: “To develop our plan further, we need people to get involved and tell us what they would find useful in their local area.

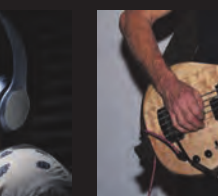

“We want to get views from people of different backgrounds and abilities about cycling and walking to help us make improvements which will have real benefits.”

The survey will be available online on Lancashire County Council’s website until May 5.

Rise of Covid and Norovirus cases puts pressure on A&E

People with symptoms are urged to 'stay away' by hospital bosses in bid to limit the spread of virus

Report by Tom Martin

HEALTH bosses at Southport and Ormskirk hospitals are urging people to "stay away" if they have Covid symptoms or upset stomachs due to "very high levels of attendance" at A&E.

A spike in cases of Covid and the norovirus has left staff struggling to cope with so many people in A&E.

While those patients with Covid are usually presenting with other conditions, the need to isolate them is putting additional pressure on managing beds.

Andrew Chalmers, Deputy Director of Infection Prevention and Control, said: "We are urging people not to visit or attend hospital if they have Covid, or symptoms of nausea, diarrhoea or vomiting. Please call ahead for advice if you already have an appointment."

Assessment

Mr Chalmers continued: "People who make their own way to A&E will be assessed at the door. They will be advised on the best care for them."

"For those who don't need emergency care, this may be an NHS service outside hospital."

"Anyone who wants to remain in A&E will be able to do so but may also face a long wait."

In an emergency, you should always call 999. Where you need urgent care or medical advice, or are not sure where to go, contact NHS111 first.

They will direct you to the most appropriate service. There is also lots of advice available on the NHS website for self-care options.

Raise a glass at Court Leet real ale festival!

A RANGE of 15 real ales, including three from overseas brewers, will be available at The Court Leet in Ormskirk during its 12-day real ale festival.

The pub in Wheatsheaf Walk will host the festival from today (Wednesday) to Sunday, April 10.

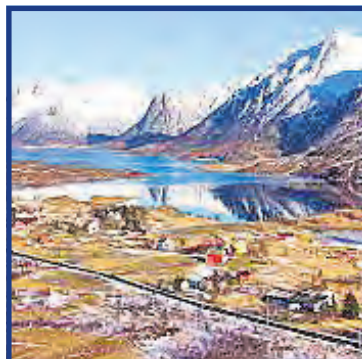

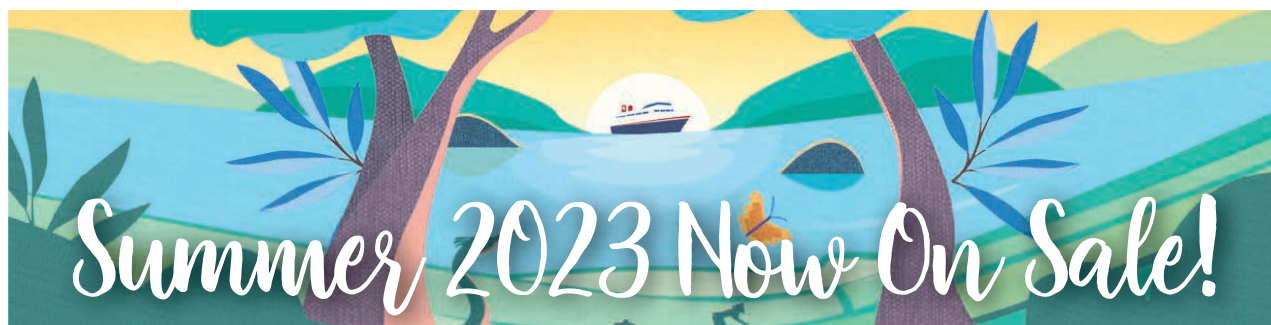

The overseas brewers are from Australia, USA and Italy. There are also beers from Orkney and Jersey.

Among the festival collection are vegan, as well as gluten-free beers.

FA Amateur Cup legends get back together to play charity match with Hollyoaks stars

THE FA Amateur Cup returned to Skelmersdale for the first time in more than 50 years, along with some legends of the team that won the trophy back in 1971 as a team of United veterans took on a team from the TV drama Hollyoaks.

The Skem United Vets team included all time appearance record holder Robbie Holcroft and Stuart Rudd, the club's leading scorer.

For Hollyoaks there was a number of the well known celebrities from the TV Show, led by Nick Pickard.

This was a competitive game from the off, with proceeds helping to support the Mayor of West Lancashire's charities Birchwood Centre, Skelmersdale and Ormskirk St Anne's 5th Guides & Brownies.

The Hollyoaks cast showed some neat touches and took the lead through Mazz Ajtar, but the Vets came into their own, Dave Standley and Tony Hallam at the back looking as though they had never been away.

Former Skelmersdale goalie Robbie Holcroft

The Hollyoaks team on the attack

Kev Leadbetter and United guests former Liverpool players Alan Kennedy and Howard Gayle were making them tick in midfield before Carl Osman set up John Carroll who shot from 30 yards to beat the keeper.

United had to make a change in goal after an injury to Robbie Holcroft, with 'flying winger' Paul Tynan taking over.

The weather began to take its toll in the second half, as some of the United players had not pulled on a kit for a number of years and many went down with cramp but they were not about to give up as John Carroll netted his second to put United in front.

Former Wigan Athletic star Jason Jarrett guesting for the TV side, created the best of their chances and showed a great turn of foot.

It was down to the last minute when the goal of the game settled in in favour of the Vets as Mero Waugh hit a thunderbolt shot from the edge of the box that nearly broke the back of the net.

It was a game enjoyed by all who took part, some of the Skem veterans are already looking forward to getting together again next season.

Vets defender Ian Price said: "It was great to see some of the old lads again."

"It's been a long time, hopefully we will do it again."

West Lancashire College receives 'Good' rating in Ofsted report

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancashire College has received a rating of 'Good' from Ofsted following a full inspection of learning provider NCG's colleges in January.

The college has said this grade of Good "reflects the hard work and dedication of our colleagues and valued partners to ensure that the education and training we provide to our learners is of the highest standard."

The report highlights many positives about West Lancashire College, including:

- The good quality work experience and work placements they offer, and in particular the opportunities available to learners studying within The School of Medicine who have received relevant work experience in NHS facilities

- How well the college responds to the demands of employers and to the needs of learners and the local community

- The motivation of the learners to learn and to develop their skills and knowledge

- The information and support the learners receive in their tutorial programmes about how to stay physically healthy and mentally well

- The strong policy frameworks for quality, teaching, equality and diversity, and safeguarding

- The positive destinations of the young people, adult learners and learners with high needs

- The positive cultural shift of the Group and the shared goals of colleagues right across the country to provide high quality education to their learners.

Denise Williamson, principal of West Lancashire College, said:

"Our Ofsted inspection outcome reflects the hard work and commitment of the fabulous team of staff at the college, as well as the valued contributions made by our partners, to drive positive change and improvement for the benefit of our learners amidst a lot of change and many unforeseen challenges, including a world-wide pandemic.

"I look forward to continuing this work to ensure that we continue to provide our learners with education and training that will help them to succeed here in the North West, enabling social mobility and economic prosperity through exceptional education."

Mum and son jailed for illegally burning rubbish at waste site

Report by Tom Martin

A MOTHER and son from Aughton have been jailed for illegally storing and burning rubbish at a waste yard site in south Sefton.

Patricia Hills, 69, of Moss Delph Lane, was jailed for one year and her son Mark Hills, 44, of Turn Pike Road, was sentenced to eight months in prison after a trial at Liverpool Crown Court on March 22.

The pair had been prosecuted by the Environment Agency for failing to operate within an environmental permit for dealing with waste at the company site on Redfern Street, in Bootle, which was called MWM Recycling.

Merseyside Police and the Environment Agency (EA) carried out a raid at the site in August 2018.

The site had its environmental permit revoked and an enforcement notice issued to clear the land of waste.

Despite this, waste continued to be stored and illegally burnt on site. Additionally, steps to clear the waste stored on the site by the company were not completed.

Patricia Hills was found to be running the company and as well as her prison sentence she has also been disqualified from being a director for five years.

Mark Hills oversaw the day-to-day running of the site.

Ashleigh Bennington, area manager at the Environment Agency said: "The Environment Agency is committed to taking robust enforcement action against those who break the law, to protect communities and the environment."

"In this case, Patricia and Mark Hills were offered extensive advice and guidance from Environment

Mark Hills

Agency officers but despite this, failed to clear the Redfern Street site of waste, and even accepted further waste when they did not have a permit to do so. This caused an unacceptable risk the local community and environment.

"Sites like this, undercut legitimate businesses and risk harming the environment. That's why, we are determined to make life hard for criminals and support legitimate business by disrupting and stopping waste offenders."

"Members of the public can report waste crime to our 24/7 incident hotline on 0800 807060, waste crime can also be reported anonymously via Crimestoppers online or on 0800 555111."

West Lancs Council 'has no interest in joining Southport'

Borough's leader pours cold water on proposal as 'financially unviable'

Report by Tom Martin

WEST Lancashire Borough Council has "no interest" in expanding into Southport, says local authority leader Cllr Ian Moran.

The Champion revealed last week how West Lancashire's Labour MP Rosie Cooper had written a joint letter with Southport Tory MP Damien Moore urging the government to expand the borough to include Southport. Ms Cooper said the borough was currently in 'no man's land' between the two big centres of Liverpool and Manchester and needed to include Southport to "give it a stronger voice."

Cllr Moran, however, said the council has "no interest" in merging with Southport and he does not see it as "remotely financially viable."

He added that they were already pursuing a county devolution deal with neighbouring Lancashire councils including Chorley and South Ribble.

The idea has also been condemned by Sefton Council's leader, Cllr Ian Maher, who said it would be "disastrous for the people of Southport" if the town moved into Lancashire.

The letter by MPs Rosie Cooper and Damien Moore asked Michael Gove, the minister for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities, for measures to be put in place for Southport to leave the Sefton Council area and join West Lancashire.

A spokesperson for Damien Moore told the Champion that the MP had a "very brief face-to-face chat" with Mr Gove last week over the plans, and they will schedule a meeting for more detailed talks at a later date.

MP Moore claims that the reason for the proposal is because of "council mismanagement" in Sefton, while MP Cooper believes the addition of Southport in Lancashire would give Ormskirk and Skelmersdale a "stronger voice."

Leader to step down and take break from politics

Cllr Ian Moran to spend more time with his family after 'full on' two years working during pandemic

Report by Henry James

THE leader of West Lancashire Borough Council Ian Moran is to step down and take a break from politics.

Cllr Moran who has been a borough councillor now for 12 years, representing the Up Holland ward, said the last two years working during the pandemic had been tiring and he wanted to spend more time with his family.

The 54-year-old, who works for Royal Mail and is also an active member of the CWU trade union, did not rule out a return to politics in the future.

He said: "I am tired. The last two years during Covid have been very full on. I have also worked full-time and there has been no furlough for postmen."

"There were more meetings during the pandemic and they were time consuming and stressful. I had Covid during this time as well."

"I now need a break to reassess my commitments. I made the decision last summer after talking to non-political friends and family. I want to spend more time now with my family and friends and am not ruling out a return to local government. Never say never."

Councillor Moran said the highlights while being leader of the council have been seeing the development of Skelmersdale Town Centre and Tawd Valley Park being opened up to the public.

West Lancashire Borough Council Leader, Cllr Ian Moran

He said: "It has been fantastic to see that going well."

"It has been good to see the improvements on the canal towpath at Parbold and Burscough. The towpath work can be enjoyed by residents throughout West Lancashire."

"I am also pleased we were able to purchase Wheatsheaf Walk in Ormskirk which secured jobs in the town."

"I am proud of the community based property development company Tawd Valley Developments as well which has allowed the council to build council houses in numbers for the first time in many years."

"Hopefully, Full Council will overturn opposition parties attempts to have it wound up."

"One of my proudest moments this year is that we have been able to balance the books at the borough council without making any compulsory redundancies."

Cllr Moran believes his work as leader has taken him away from his ward responsibilities, and he added: "I have enjoyed my work with the residents of Up Holland. I have done one to one work, and residents have come to me with problems about anti social behaviour."

"I have also worked with County Councillor John Fillis on traffic issues on Parliament Street and School Lane."

"Shop manager Suresh Patel has been chosen by Labour to fight the ward that I am stepping down from. He is a good candidate."

Fin's fantastic feat for charity

AN Ormskirk schoolboy recently took on a big challenge to raise money for patients with bone cancer.

Fin Cowan successfully completed the 'Burpee Challenge' - a type of squat thrust - set by The Bone Cancer Research Trust, which asked its participants to complete 2,000 burpees throughout February.

The eight year old, who attends St. Anne's Catholic Primary School, raised a whopping £425.

Fin (shown, right) said: "I'm really happy I did it and I feel proud of myself, I'm also much better at burpees now too!"

Students 'Walk of Solidarity' for Ukraine

EDGE Hill University students and staff have been showing their support for Ukraine by raising money to support refugees and offering accommodation and education to Ukrainian students.

In response to the war in Ukraine staff and students (pictured) felt compelled to help all those affected by the conflict.

Senior lecturer in Social Work Ciaran Murphy organised a 'Walk of Solidarity' for students, staff and members of the local community to show their support for Ukraine.

On the day donation buckets were dotted all over the university and a dedicated JustGiving page was set up with the aim of raising funding for charities working in Ukraine.

Edge Hill has also offered accommodation and education for Ukrainian students fleeing the conflict so that their education is not affected by the war.

Senior lecturer in Social Work Ciaran Murphy said: "I've been overwhelmed with support from our community."

P&O sackings called 'despicable' by MP

Report by Henry James

THE decision by P&O Ferries to sack 800 staff without notice has been strongly condemned by Rosie Cooper MP.

Seafarers at P&O received their notice without warning via a Zoom conference – and now there are reports at P&O Ferries intends to replace them with agency staff who may be paid as little as £5.50 per hour.

P&O Ferries boss Peter Hebblethwaite admitted to MPs last Thursday that the decision to sack 800 workers without notice broke the law.

Rosie Cooper MP said: "This is a vicious and pre-meditated attack on British workers by a company which received millions in taxpayer support during the pandemic.

"It should be resisted with full force by people up and down this country and by these workers' unions: the RMT and Nautilus.

"I have joined with more than 40 other Labour parliamentarians in signing an open letter to the Transport Secretary demanding that he intervene to hold P&O accountable.

"The government must now recognise that its refusal to outlaw 'fire and rehire' has laid the groundwork for this despicable decision.

"I will be applying maximum pressure on the government to intervene in what is becoming a Wild West of employment rights!

"Any West Lancashire resident who stands to be affected by this decision should contact my office and I will provide whatever support I can."

The former Stanley Arms in Up Holland.

Closed pub could be turned into homes

Plan to convert former Stanley Arms building into three terraced houses

Report by Tom Martin

A CLOSED-DOWN village pub which has become an eyesore and is used by squatters could be turned into terraced houses.

Plans have been submitted to convert the former Stanley Arms in Up Holland into three terraced houses.

A five-bedroom detached house would also be built at the back of the property.

The applicants Advance Electrical & Solar, say the proposed homes at the Ormskirk Road site would mirror the adjacent terraced houses.

The Stanley Arms closed in January 2020 after no permanent tenants for the business could be found. It was then boarded up and left abandoned.

The applicant states that previous owners Admiral

Taverns disclosed that the pub's closure was 'a result of poor trade and competition from other nearby public houses.'

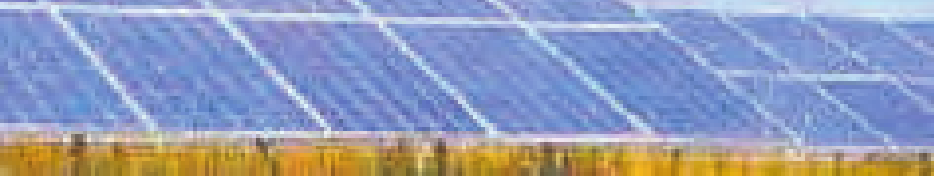

They added: "By changing the use of The Stanley to residential accommodation, we will create family homes in Up Holland and continue to ensure the success of the other local public houses."

"As The Stanley has already been closed for more than two years, previous customers have already relocated. The Stanley has been boarded up and abandoned for the past two years leaving an eyesore in the picturesque village of Up Holland."

"As it stands, the building is in need of serious repair. Upon ownership of The Stanley, we noted that there were squatters occupying the property and outbuildings, creating opportunity for anti-social behaviour, vandalism and illegal substance misuse. The building has been subject to graffiti and vandalism including broken windows."

The application states that there is general support from residents for the proposal as the building has attracted anti-social behaviour.

Group aims to power town with cheap green energy

The scheme could generate electricity through solar power, heat pumps and wind turbines.

Report by Henry James

A COMMUNITY group dedicated to bringing renewable and low-carbon energy solutions to Skelmersdale is being launched.

The Skelmersdale Community Energy Association will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, April 6 at the Ecumenical Centre.

It has already successfully applied for funds to undertake a feasibility study into potential for powering the town with renewable sources of energy.

It hopes measures can be adopted to address fuel poverty as households are seeing their energy bills rise massively.

The scheme would involve a 'closed' system of energy with renewable sources powering heat arrays.

The energy would come from a mix of solar panels, heat pump systems and small wind turbines, if there is community approval.

The locations for these will be examined in the feasibility study.

The scheme could be funded via a Community Benefit Society under the regulation of the Financial Conduct Authority.

Organiser Paul Cotterill said: "As an informal group we've already made quite a lot of headway, and our delighted that we have been funded by the North West Rural Community Energy Fund to commission an expert-led feasibility study."

He said there could be potential to develop a 'closed' system of renewable energy within the town. This means heat could be released to homes in the town independently from the national grid.

Mr Cotterill added: "It would also be able to feed excess into the grid for sale, with proceeds going into a 'community benefit fund.'

"We need to do the technical detail so we can put together a community-owned investment plan."

"The cost-of-living crisis, alongside the climate emergency, means we need to move as quickly as we can on this."

"This first meeting is a step in that process. I hope people will find the time to come down to hear about progress to date, and discuss plans for the future."

The meeting starts at 7pm with the focus on agreeing the constitution and electing a first management committee, followed by an opportunity to discuss initial proposals.

Artwork receives mixed reaction from residents

by Henry James

NEWLY-created artwork on public places around the borough has had a mixed reaction.

Some residents have criticised the artwork's 'lack of research' and its 'comic-like' appearance while others have described it as 'awesome' and 'brilliant'.

Acclaimed international artist, Carrie Reichardt, is behind one piece which shows 'Orme' the Viking chasing a gingerbread man. In total, three artworks have been installed by artists to celebrate the 'unique high streets of West Lancashire' as part of the Welcome Back Fund series of initiatives.

But Borough resident, Dot Hawkes, criticised the work and wrote on the borough council's social media page: "Obviously no historical research undertaken on Orme and his ancestors by anyone involved."

"The children of Ormskirk will be totally misinformed and grow up thinking Vikings wore horns on their helmets. Orme was a very powerful and wealthy landowner and should not be portrayed in this Victorian myth way."

"It is hideous, no point celebrating the history of the town inaccurately."

Another resident, Bryan Pready, wrote: "That picture has got nothing to do with history or archaeology; looks like it's been copied from a comic."

However, John Brindle liked the artwork and wrote: "Awesome, love it, some people make me laugh, anything to complain." Lynne Graham was also a fan and commented: "Brilliant work, love it!"

Burscough is also hosting a new mosaic by artist Amanda Anderson, to pay homage to the abundance of local fauna and natural beauty while Paul Curtis, the artist behind

...from 'lack of research' and 'comic-like' - to 'brilliant' and 'awesome'... locals speak out on new works of art now adorning the borough

Liverpool's striking wings mural, is creating another 'timeless' piece for Ormskirk Town Centre.

'Insta moment'

A spokesperson for the borough council commented: "Whilst the artworks acknowledge Ormskirk's historical links with the legend of Orme the Viking and the town's long-standing association with gingerbread, as a work of art, some artistic licence has been used to create a dynamic sense of movement and drama while still being fun and interactive."

"Artist Carrie Reichardt has always been interested in documenting history where it happens and exploring how artists can archive local history in fun and creative ways. This mosaic has been created in the distinctive style that has made her so renowned as an artist."

"The artworks have been commissioned to attract visitors to different areas of the town centre to help our businesses recover after a very tough time for the high street and we're really looking forward to seeing families, residents and visitors have their 'insta' moment with Orme and his gingerbread man."

The finishing touches are put to Orme the Viking Cygnets hatch at Mere!

THREE black swan cygnets have hatched at WWT Martin Mere Wetland Centre just in time for Easter!

The cygnets hatched on March 18 and can be seen with their parents in the Weird or Wonderful area of the grounds.

Nick Brooks, centre manager, said: "Even though Easter holidays are a little bit early this year, we are already seeing lots of activity."

It is great that all the families visiting us over Easter will see these cute cygnets."

The black swan cygnets are just one of the main attractions for the Easter Holidays.

WWT Martin Mere is open every day from 9.30am to 6pm and parking is free of charge.

Visit the web site at www.wwt.org.uk/martinmere/ for further information.

Pangea Sculptures

SCULPTURES

Ian asks your support for Pangea Africa Aid

Dear friends, We are delighted to advise that Pangea Sculpture is working very hard to help the workers that make our Sculptures and in turn their families to improve their wellbeing and lifestyle.

We have now decided to improve our help with a new incentive called Pangea Africa aid By giving a bit you will be giving a-lot to them.

Since 2014 Pangea has given just over $1,000,000 to support & improve working conditions and safety within 9 different workshops that are making Sculptures for ourselves and we have also supported one local school in Nairobi with 36 children between 5 to 11 years old, we are continuing this support this for the foreseeable future.

The above support does not include the turnover for the sculptures which is considerable & growing year by year. Currently we are responsible for the employment of about 460/500 people directly & indirectly in Africa, which i am personally very proud of.

We our asking yourselves if you would like to join us on this journey by donating any spare used, unused clothes, shoes, mobile phones, laptops, PCs etc

This can be done by simply dropping goods off at our showroom in Ormskirk or send to the address below

We will manage the onward distribution to Africa

We are NOT asking for any money, just a bit of help with donations. PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE join us on this amazing journey of helping our friends in Africa.

If you wish to include a note or letter with the parcel, please do so & We will ensure it will be sent with your donated items. To get a reply from those you're helping with your donations, please remember to include your contact information so we can help them communicate back.

A small painted Robin or Rose will be given as a token of appreciation for your help, this will last until the end of April. I have just returned from Africa after spending 10 days visiting all our workshops and meeting most of the workers, who are doing a fantastic job there.

This is my 10th time in Africa in 9 years and covered quite a few air miles in the process.

Please help as much as you can and a big Thank you in advance for your help and support.

Train timetable for Grand National revealed

MERSEYRAIL has announced a special timetable for the Grand National Festival, with a 10-minute frequency service running between Liverpool city centre and Aintree stations.

Andy Heath, managing director at Merseyrail, said: "This special timetable means we are able to get thousands of racegoers to and from the world's biggest horse racing event safely and efficiently, as well as delivering a reliable service to commuters across the Liverpool City Region."

The Grand National Festival starts on Thursday, April 7, with Ladies Day on Friday and the National on Saturday. For a full list of the train times and dates, visit Merseyrail's website.

Leisure centres launch new green initiative

SERCO Leisure - who in partnership with West Lancashire Leisure Trust run three leisure centres in the borough (Burscough Racket & Fitness Centre, Park Pool, and Nye Bevan) and also the Beacon Park Golf Centre - has announced the launch of its latest green initiative.

The scheme is called Maintaining A Fitter Future, and will provide customers with an updated checklist detailing everything the leisure sites are doing to stay environmentally friendly.

Maintaining A Fitter Future will have a physical presence at the sites via a prominent noticeboard but will also have a dedicated page added to websites.

The physical and digital checklist will include an environmental five-year plan for the centres, their energy usage certificates, a carbon reduction plan, as well as details of any biodiversity projects happening around the centres.

Demand soars for engineering college courses

WEST Lancashire College has revealed a "significant investment" will be made to its Engineering Department as a result of local demand in the sector.

One of the college's strategic priorities is to provide an "innovative and responsive led" curriculum which meets the needs of employers and addresses local and regional skills shortages.

With this in mind the college recently opened The School of Science, a hi-tech centre with a fully equipped engineering suite giving students access "to the very best specialist equipment and technology as they train for their future careers."

The School of Science was funded by the Lancashire Enterprise Partnership's Growth Deal Programme.

In addition to the facilities, the college has also invested to grow their engineering delivery

Members of the college's engineering team team, and boost their engineering managers, assessors and tutors.

The newly formed team have vast academic and industry experience, working previously at leading colleges in the North West.

The college now offer a range of engineering qualifications from their hi-spec centre which includes Engineering Technical Support Technician Apprenticeship and BTEC Level 3 Engineering.

Collective defence via NATO best way to keep peace

The letter entitled 'NATO can be incoherent and seen as provocative' can itself be challenged on several points not least that NATO is in some way responsible for the death and destruction being rained upon Ukraine.

Whilst I agree that a debate has not happened in Parliament; we are as a society able to debate and if necessary disagree with the course of action being followed by our Government - who we can remove via the ballot box.

This is not something the main belligerent in this affair allows.

To even consider that we are 'extending a war' by giving the unfortunate Ukrainians the means to defend themselves is a strange distortion.

The letter goes on to argue that autocracy has lifted hundreds of millions of people out of poverty in China while democracy had failed the people of India

I am sure if the author was to take a deeper look into history he would see that Chinese autocracy with policies such as 'The Great Leap Forward' and 'The Cultural Revolution' actually led to the deaths of millions and a further retrenchment into poverty.

The elimination of poverty in China only started with the embrace of global capitalism and political system was largely irrelevant.

The author should also look at the economic figures from India where World Bank-acknowledged poverty reduction programmes, plus an emerging middle class, would contradict the above statement.

The letter finally discusses the merits of collective defence and actually makes some valid points with which few people could disagree. It is a shame that he then proceeds to state that it can be difficult to determine whether NATO is peace maker or war maker.

This is the most contentious of all statements made as the people of Ukraine would definitely place Russia in the role of war maker.

The powers that be in the Kremlin as well as those NATO detractors should ask themselves why sovereign democratic countries like Ukraine wish to join NATO, why countries such as Poland and the Czech Republic have joined NATO and finally, most pertinently, why countries with a history of neutrality like Finland and Sweden are now considering joining the alliance.

Dare I suggest that it is because they can see they are directly threatened by Russia and they see the aforementioned merits of collective defence in a defensive alliance to be the best guarantee of their and their peoples' human rights.

Ravinder Gill,
Crosby

P&O sackings are what you are going to get when workers have fewer rights

I am surprised that our Government are pretending to be incandescent with rage about the sacking of P&O employees.

When the nation voted for Brexit to 'Take back control' this was precisely the type of thing we were voting for.

We were warned but we chose to listen instead to the soundbites that Messrs Johnson, Gove, Reece Mogg and Farage et al were pumping out.

Politics by nationalistic populist slogans can never be good for a nation of largely uninformed individuals.

And before you go off in a rage of indignation at that last comment, ask yourself this.

How many of the Articles and Protocols of the Human Rights Act can I name?

I can tell you we all enjoy considerable privileges and protections because of that very act that the Conservatives would happily abolish.

The Conservatives have loathed it for decades. And they have convinced many voters that they are an unnecessary burden on our 'sovereign nation'.

Ask yourself; why would a Government that in 2013, introduced prohibitive £1,200 fees on people wanting to apply to bring a complaint to an Employment Tribunal?

This prevents the majority of workers from exercising their rights to claim unfair dismissal when previously the right to apply to a tribunal was free.

The same party that had previously increased the qualifying time to apply to a tribunal for unfair dismissal from the previous period of one year of continuous employment to two years?

Why would the party that will not introduce legislation prohibiting 'Fire and Rehire', by which employers can sack their employees and bring them back on less pay and worse terms, be furious about the sacking of 800 P&O employees?

The Conservatives are the party that is slowly eradicating your employment and civil rights.

Why do the Conservatives criticise the Health and Safety at Work act? Since its introduction in 1974 the number of fatal workplace injuries has fallen by 90%.

And one final question.

Why did P&O sack only British employees and not any European workers.

Well could it just be that Brexit has given us freedom from all of those onerous European laws that offer its European citizens protection from exploitation.

Tribunals fees were abolished in 2017 after the Union union challenged the Government in the High Court where the judges unanimously agreed the Government was discriminating against lower paid workers.

David Dawson,
Retired HR manager,

Make sure you don't miss out on Pension Credit

We have recently seen an increase in the number of people making a claim for Pension Credit.

However, as the cost of living increases, there are still hundreds of thousands of pensioners whom might be eligible who are not - including readers of this paper.

They are missing out on this extra support, which could be worth over £3,300 a year.

I strongly urge anyone who thinks they might be eligible to make a claim - by calling the DWP Pension Credit Freephone claim line on 0800 99 1234, by post or online.

Organisations such as Age UK, Christians Against Poverty or your local Citizens Advice Bureau, can also help you to claim.

So, please, if you have a relative, or are caring for someone, help them make a claim.

Even a small amount of Pension Credit can open the door to other support including a free TV licence, help with council tax, housing benefit, NHS dental treatment and the Warm Home Discount.

This is worth hundreds or even thousands of pounds.

And we don't want your mum or dad, or any loved one, to miss out.

If you're in any doubt whatsoever, please do take just a few minutes today to check your eligibility.

I want everyone to receive the support they are entitled to - and the application process couldn't be more straightforward.

Guy Opperman,
Minister for Pensions and Financial Inclusion, Department for Work and Pension.

School could solve parking problem with drop-off point

With reference to the article in last week's Champion about the severe parking problems on roads around Pontville School in Ormskirk.

There is a simple solution to cars and taxis parking irresponsibly around local streets.

There always used to be an in/out driveway in front of the school where vehicles could pull in and drop off students and drive out of another exit, thus not leaving cars and vans to block residents' driveways and bus routes.

Perhaps the school's management could explain why they have altered this arrangement that has worked well for over 20 years?

This was altered with no consultation of the consequences to the residents and now there exists much bad feeling that the school has no care for the community in which it operates!

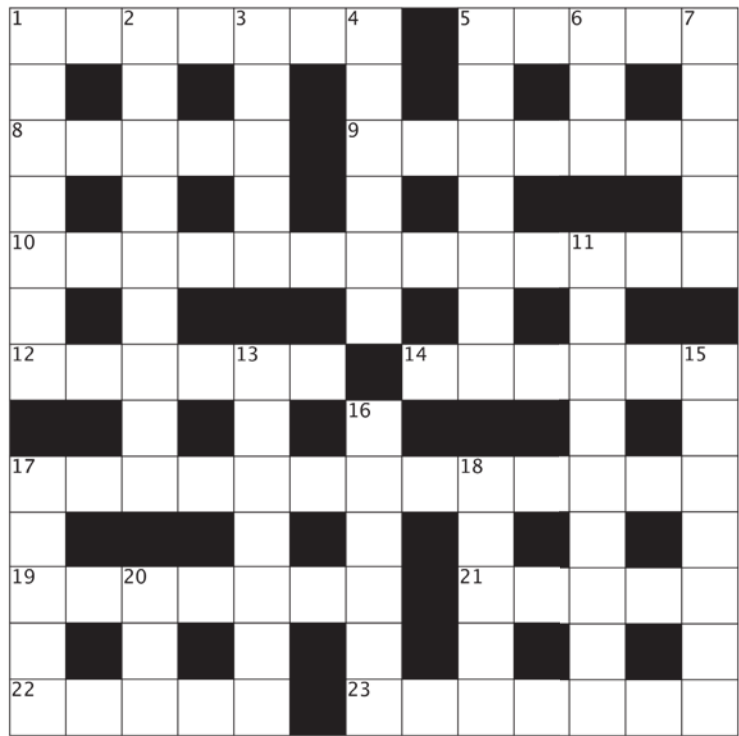

There have been signs put up to no avail, to ask drivers to park 'considerably!'

They certainly do that!

A fed up neighbour,

Police want to identify these people

CCTV appeal
after bank
card stolen

LANCS Police are asking for any information to help them identify the two people in the above image after an elderly woman had her bank card stolen while shopping in Morrisons store in Ormskirk. The incident happened on Tuesday, March 15.

The woman had withdrawn a small amount of cash from the cash machine outside the store and her card was then taken from her bag and used to withdraw several amounts of cash.

If you have any information call 101 quoting Log 0802 of March 15, 2022.

More 'resources'
to put the brakes
on speeding cars

Report by Henry James

A NEW package of resources for communities who want to tackle problems with speeding has been launched by Lancashire County Council.

They include eye-catching banners, bin stickers and hi-visibility jackets urging drivers to 'Slow down, save lives', to help people who are concerned about speeding to raise awareness of the issue and encourage drivers to change their behaviour.

The resources were launched at the Parish and Town Councils Conference held at County Hall in Preston, which focused on how communities can work with the county council to improve their local environment.

County Councillor Peter Buckley, cabinet member for community and cultural services, said: "As well as being illegal and increasing the severity of any potential collision, speeding in residential areas has a major impact on people's health, whether by adding to their stress, or discouraging them from doing the things they want to do, such as walking and cycling, or allowing their children to play outside."

"As we've seen with many successful campaigns over the years, one of the most effective ways to approach a road safety problem is to educate people about it and change their behaviour."

"Many communities are already working to reduce speeding outside their homes, and we've created a road safety resource pack to help them with this task."

If you would like to find out more about the road safety resources available, email safer-travelteam@lancashire.gov.uk.

Dovehaven group appoints its first ever CEO

DOVEHAVEN, which has care, residential and nursing homes in Southport and West Lancashire, has appointed its first ever chief executive.

Jenny Davies will take on the role having spent her career working at senior levels in regulated utilities, telecoms and retail.

She said: "I knew that my next role needed to be somewhere with a strong purpose and the health and social care sector has shown us all, no more than recently, how important high-quality adult social care is to the people in our lives.

"I look forward to working with the owners and the capable team at Dovehaven to take the business forward and build the leading care home provider in the North West."

Terry to walk 1,000 miles to Vatican City!

By Henry James

A MAN from Skelmersdale is set to walk more than 1,000 miles from Liverpool, Christ the King Cathedral to St Peter's Basilica in Vatican City, Rome as he wanted to do something positive after struggling to cope during the pandemic.

Terry Devine from Dugmoor, who is a borough councillor for Moorside, will also be raising money for local charities, including Ormskirk Hospital, as the NHS has helped his daughter, Brooke, who is waiting for a kidney transplant.

The 55-year-old, is an ex-British Serviceman and has seen action in the army in Northern Ireland, Kosovo and Iraq.

He will start off walking on Sunday, May 15, from Liverpool to Dover and will then travel to Calais on the Ferry.

Terry, who is self financing the fundraiser, will then walk on the pilgrimage route, the Via Francigena, all the way to Rome.

This route covers north east France to Lake Lausanne then to the Swiss Alps crossing into Italy at the St Bernard's Pass to Aosta, Italy then to Rome on a way-marked way. His journey will finish at St Peter's Square in Vatican City, Rome, which he expects will be in the middle of September.

He has already walked many routes in this country, including across Hadrian's Wall and along the Pennine Way.

The local charities involved will be: the Children's Ward at Ormskirk Hospital; Blossom's Legacy; Twinkle House; and Arlo's Support.

Terry said: "I wanted to do something positive after struggling during the pandemic. This will be my first trip to Rome. It is the last item on my bucket list."

"I found it hard through the Covid 19 lockdown being locked in and my only escape was work."

"I found it hard to motivate myself and get out of bed in the morning."

Terry Devine on a previous walk

"During the pandemic, I found myself in a catatonic state and would attach myself to the couch with a quilt over myself."

"The change came after my fiancée saw the state I was in, and work saw the state I was in. I was given time off and went back to see the doctor which has helped me."

Terry explained he chose the particular charities to collect for as 'they do excellent work in the community.'

He added: "I wanted to support Arlo's Support charity. I worked at the Concourse when Blossom died and we knew her and her family. The work Twinkle House does is unbelievable as well."

"I chose to fundraise for the hospital as I wanted to give something back to the NHS. The care they have given my daughter has been fantastic."

Skem boss proud of his players even if they don't reach play-offs

McNally praises his side ahead of final league game

SKELMERSDALE United manager Paul McNally said his team have had a "fantastic season", even if they don't end up in a play-off position, as they prepare for their final match of the season, writes Neil Leatherbarrow.

In an interview posted on the club's website, McNally praised his side for surprising a lot of people by competing at the top end of the table, which saw them put unlikely pressure on the overwhelming favourites Macclesfield.

Despite a dip in form over the past few weeks, Skem could still achieve a valuable runners up spot that would open the doors to a play-off position for the remaining promotion place.

Hoping to overtake Skem into second place are Wythenshawe and Charnock, who both have games in hand.

This Saturday, Skem host Lower Breck at the JMO Sports Park, but McNally admits he isn't hopeful of ending the day in second.

He said: "I don't think that we will get a play-off, to be honest. It's in the hands of Wythenshawe and Charnock now."

"If it's not to be, it will still be a fantastic season that we've had. Hopefully, you never know in football, it might turn around."

The season has in the main gone very well for Skelmersdale and might still end in promotion.

After taking a little while to find their feet, they went on an unbeaten run that lifted them for a short time to the top of the North West Counties Premier Division table and threatened to overcome the giant at the top of the table in the form of a reformed and very well resourced Macclesfield, who unsurprisingly have gone to lift the league title.

Skem fans have certainly responded to the side's achievements this season and attendances are actually bigger than they were eight or nine years ago in the Northern Premier League days at Stormy Corner.

Paul McNally says his players (inset) have had a 'fantastic season'

The security this gives the club will hopefully allow them to invest a bit more in the team next season and build on this season.

Skem are in cup action on Tuesday, April 5 when they travel to AFC Blackpool in the Macron Cup Second Round (North West Counties League Cup).

Premier Division	P	GD	Pts
1 Macclesfield (C)	39	54	91
2 Skelmersdale United	39	41	76
3 Wythenshawe Town	38	39	75
4 Charnock Richard	38	33	72

Skem currently occupy second spot in the table

Linnets suffer defeat away at Padiham - but still have chance of finishing fifth

Padiham 2
Burscough 0

BURSCOUGH travelled over to East Lancashire for their penultimate league game of the season and went down to goals in the last half hour after putting in a decent show despite the defeat.

Burscough missed a good opportunity just before the half hour mark and it was to cost them dearly in the second-half.

Joel Brownhill gave Padiham the lead on 61 minutes, taking advantage of slip up in the Burscough defence.

The second and killer goal arrived five minutes from the end, substitute

Owen Devonport scoring for the hosts.

Burscough's last game of the season is away to Charnock Richard on this Saturday.

The Linnets are currently in sixth position, but remain only three points behind fifth-placed Avro with the same goal difference.

Queenscourt Hospice is an independent charity that provides free, specialist palliative care for the people of Southport, Formby and West Lancashire. We care for patients with advanced progressive illnesses, helping them to achieve the best possible quality of life.

Quality and Governance Co-Ordinator

£21,587 - £25,395 (pro rata)
Permanent, circa 16 hrs per week
Location: Southport, Merseyside

An exciting, multi-faceted and fast paced role has arisen in the quality team at Queenscourt Hospice. The role will provide invaluable support to the Quality and Governance Manager as well as clinical teams. The post holder must be adaptable, flexible and be able to respond to situations at short notice. You will have strong organisational skills, use a wide range of IT knowledge to demonstrate, evidence and report on quality data. There will be some requirement to communicate with health and social care professionals, patients and those important to them. You will support the quality team in preparation for CQC information requests.

Previous applicants need not apply.

INTERESTED? WE OFFER:

- We support NHS pension scheme for those with eligibility
- Working in a modern, bright and welcoming environment
- Free on-site parking and subsidised meals
- Staff receive excellent support and supervision from our clinical management team
- We mirror NHS Agenda for Change pay-scales and previous NHS service will be honoured in respect of pay
- Excellent training and development opportunities, including support to undertake professional qualifications or academic study

Closing date for receipt of applications is Midnight Wednesday 13th April 2022
Interviews will be held TBC

IN MEMORIAM

JANET MURRAY

So sad to hear of your passing and so sorry I couldn't take you back when you asked, you left it too late. Even through all the pain and tears, you were still my world, my everything. You lived your life like a candle in the wind. Just wish I could have been there for you when you needed me most. I'll remember forever the years we spent together and all the happy times. You'll have a special place in my heart now and always.

Until we meet again, good-night, God Bless and Rest in Peace. R.

Champion MOTORS

Let's think smartly about charging commuters

Drivers of luxury cars like the Audi A8 would be least affected by workplace parking charges

YOUNG executives, the late poet laureate Sir John Betjeman once opined, drove the firm's Cortina. Nearly 50 years on, the same go-getters will be ruddylucky if they get a 1-Series chunked in as part of their competitive salary package – and now it looks increasingly likely that they'll have to pay to park it outside the office too.

There's a lot of talk at the moment about various local authorities rolling out what's known as a Workplace Parking Levy – essentially, a business is asked to pay an annual charge for each of the parking spaces it owns, which in turn is used by the council to fund better public transport.

The good people of Nottingham are way ahead on this one, having used their £458-a-space levy to fund an extension of the city's tram network. Scotland has just given its various towns and cities the power to roll out WPLs as they see fit, Leicester's consulted on a similar scheme, and in the face of an air pollution alert, London mayor Sadiq Khan's on the case in the capital. It's worth pointing out that as far as I'm aware neither Sefton nor West Lancashire are planning anything similar at the moment – but nor, I reckon, would they want to rule it out.

And as a devoted driver I hate it, right? Not exactly, but I reckon there is a smarter way of doing it without crippling our young executives. Real-world residents who are almost certainly struggling with trying to save up for deposits on houses in new-build estates in the middle of nowhere and, when they do scrimp together enough, will then be paying £1.60 a litre to get to and from them to their offices, largely because there isn't a bus that runs early enough to get them into work before 9am.

My chief beef with WPLs is that a parking space is exactly that – a vacant spot that says absolutely nothing about what's going to be parked in it. It might, for instance, spend five days a week being occupied by an Audi S8 Black Edition, for which the company MD will have forked out £105,610 and for whom £40 a month is no big deal. On the other hand, it could be filled by an 05-plate Fiesta owned by a working mum who's behind on the gas bills. Unless it's meted out by businesses in a measured way – and at the moment, there's no requirement to do so – it's essentially a tax that hits the poorest hardest.

LIFE ON CARSwith
DAVID SIMISTERwww.lifeoncars.co.uk

I reckon that rather than issuing a blanket levy that simply stings you for being cheeky enough for owning a car AND using it for commuting, the powers-that-be could charge drivers instead for the kind of cars that'll be filling the spaces. Anyone rich enough to own a brand-new Lotus Emira could pay top whack, but those tootling around in Polos and Corsas could be charged rather less. Perhaps incentives could be introduced to incentivise ownership of eco-friendly models. Oh, and in the interests of making it fair, let's make it nationwide rather than rolled out piecemeal by councils, and charge all drivers across the whole range of motoring that they do.

You could call it – wait for it – a road tax. I think it'll catch on. Oh wait...

David Simister is the editor of Classic Car Weekly

HONDA'S Civic is going hybrid-only when the eleventh generation model goes on sale here in the autumn. The e:HEV model combines a two-litre petrol engine and two electric motors to generate 181bhp. There's no word on UK pricing yet, but it'll be available with three different trim levels. Go to www.honda.co.uk or pop into your nearest dealer to find out more.

The new Honda Civic will only be offered as a hybrid

There are now three models in the updated Alpine A110 range

ALPINE'S treated its A110 to an update to help lure more keen drivers into the mid-engined sports car. There are now three models available – the entry-level version, the GT and the range-topping A110 S – all of which come with a new infotainment system that links up with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto. Prices start at £49,905 and it's available to order now, with the first of the new A110s arriving here later this month.
